

Contact: Susan Abbey, Director of Communications and Business Development
609-243-9050, ext. 113
sabbey@symbiance.com

August 8, 2011

SYMBIANCE PARTNERS WITH JGC

New Partner Adds Clinical Operations Expertise to Symbiance

Princeton Junction, NJ — Symbiance, Inc., a niche-CRO providing clinical data management, biostatistics and medical writing, announced today it has established a strategic partnership with J. Garefino Consulting (JGC), a clinical operations company based in Newtown, PA. JGC provides monitoring, GCP auditing, investigator site selection and contract staffing.

“We’re excited about the added value that Joe Garefino and his staff bring to our clients,” said Dr. Shawki Salem, President of Symbiance. “It allows us to focus on our strong core services while also providing expertise in clinical operations.” Symbiance will be the single point of contact for clients throughout their study, with JGC retaining direct involvement during the clinical operations segment.

“Having direct involvement with the client is crucial to JGC providing top-notch service,” said Joe Garefino, President of JGC. “And being able to share clients with a company that we know and trust is a real benefit to both of us.”

Symbiance has conducted a number of trials utilizing JGC’s services, and most recently completed enrollment on a study five months ahead of schedule. “Symbiance is committed to providing results that allow clients to bring drugs to market quickly, accurately and cost effectively, and JGC will strengthen that process,” adds Salem. Both companies have a wide range of therapeutic experience in Phase I through IV clinical trials.

Symbiance is a niche Contract Research Organization (CRO) that has been a trusted partner to global pharmaceutical leaders for over 20 years, with expertise in clinical data management, biostatistics and medical writing services. With strong core services, Symbiance seamlessly blends in-house expertise with a network of long-term strategic partners, with a wide-range of therapeutic experience supporting Phase I through IV clinical trials. For more information about Symbiance, Inc. please visit www.symbiance.com.

JGC is a niche clinical research consulting company providing high quality, cost-effective services to pharmaceutical, biotechnology and contract research companies. By dealing directly with the consultant responsible for the project throughout its duration, JGC ensures continuity and provides comprehensive project knowledge. JGC’s clinical research consultants are known professionals with established reputations and solid experience in the industry.

#####